Albany Book Festival

September 29

Organized by the NYSWI, this festival includes author panels, books, and a dance party for this local event.

Graphic Novelist for Black Panther

October 12

Evan Narcisse, author of The Rise of the Black Panther series will be visiting in the afternoon to talk comics.

In partnership with NYS Writers Institute

Library Lock-In

November 16

Our annual lock-in will be back in the library at Albany High where we'll spend the evening watching movies, playing games, and being with friends.

READ Days

Dec 21 / Feb 15 / April 18

The day before school breaks, we provide an opportunity to sit and read without distractions over a hot beverage. There is no computer access or technology, simply enjoying a culture of reading with others. And have something to read during the break too!

Dance Party

March 22

Get dressed up and join us at Albany Public Library for a dance to break out of winter and into spring.

In partnership with APL

The 57 Bus

Week of May 6

Author Dashka Slater wrote about an incident where a transgender student was set afire on the 57 bus by a black classmate on the way home from school. Hear from her how she got to know the families and what the justice system did about it.

Free Comic Book Day

May 6

Let's go retro and play board games, talk superheroes, and create some fantastic extras to take home.

In collaboration with Earthworld

Library Luau

May 22 / After School

Join us for the annual end of the year party hosted by Book and Anime Club to send off the seniors, hula hoop, dance, and limbo with snacks.

Field Trips

Movies based on books and prolific authors whose works have been turned into plays? Yes! Let's take a field trip. Keep in touch with the library for a list of field trips during the day and after school.

Bibliotherapy

"Reading can take you places you have never been before" so look for videos from the librarians about fantastic titles that will take you places.

Engage

Keep up with all that we do to celebrate reading, research, technology, and libraries throughout the year in the library.
